The Quilted Mystery

By: Becky Purdy

When Cathy Connoles brought a mysterious red and white quilt covered in handwritten names to our chapter meeting last spring, no one could have predicted the fascinating genealogical journey that would unfold.

The quilt's owner, a prospective member, knew nothing about its origins or the 243 names carefully inscribed across its surface.

The cursive handwriting, reminiscent of the 1920s-1930s era, appeared to be the work of a single person organizing names into family groups.

Intrigued by this textile puzzle, I began investigating using Ancestry.com, Newspapers.com, and FindAGrave.com.

My first breakthrough came with Sewell C. Greene from Danby, Vermont, whose obituary revealed his sister Lottie, also listed on the quilt directly below his name.

Further research into the Croff family names led me to Pawlet, Vermont census records from 1910-1920, establishing both a timeframe and location. The quilt itself bore the date 1910, likely created by someone named Rhoda Smith.

Most names traced back to Pawlet and surrounding southwestern Vermont towns. While the quilt's original purpose remains unclear (perhaps for a church Ladies Aide, local Grange, or fundraising auction) the research revealed rich stories of rural Vermont families.

This September, the quilt and all research findings will find their permanent home with the Pawlet Historical Society, where this remarkable piece of local history truly belongs.◊

Chapter Sponsors Two CTDAR Scholarship Recipients

The Brooks-Green Woods Chapter is proud to announce its sponsorship of two students who received $1,000 scholarships from the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution (CTDAR). The scholarships were presented at the June Board of Management meeting.

Owen Langer of Northwestern Regional High School was the first recipient to receive his award at the ceremony. He is pictured alongside Karen Brett, Chapter Regent, and Donna Colavecchio, Chapter Scholarship Chair.

The second scholarship was awarded to Lotus Robinson of The Gilbert School, who was unable to attend the presentation meeting. These scholarships represent the chapter's continued commitment to supporting academic excellence and investing in the future of our local students.◊

Chapter Book Recommendations for America 250

Chapter Librarian Corky Lavieri distributed a selection of books to members at our May meeting, recommending them as excellent preparation for America 250.

America 250 is the nationwide commemoration of the United States' 250th anniversary, which will be celebrated in July 2026. The Daughters of the American Revolution is the first heritage society to formally partner with America250, led by the U.S. Semiquincentennial Commission.

This historic partnership includes initiatives to honor Revolutionary War patriots, engage youth through educational programming, and support efforts to tell the story of underrepresented and diverse patriots who helped win American independence.

The following books were recommended by Corky as valuable reading to deepen our understanding of our nation's founding and prepare for this momentous anniversary celebration.
